

On the Subject of Fluttering Flags

I hope you're good at geography as this is a flag quiz that doesn't make any sense!

Unicorn

If there is an unlit BOB indicator, and the serial number contains any character from the phrase "WHITE FLAG" while France is in the 7 flags, submit the flag of France.

Else

Sort the 7 flags by applying the rule identified by the main flag:

- N = country name
- D = dialing code
- I = country ISO code
- C = capital
- T = continent
- S(x) = if there is a country in the 7 flags with the continent x
- Y = currency code

If there are any flags that have the same information, sort the flags with duplicate information by their country name in alphabetical order.

A number will be displayed at the top right. After sorting the flags, submit the flag in the position of the displayed number in your sorted list of flags.

Use the table in the next pages to get information about flags and countries.
