On the Subject of Stained Glass

They're ancient, irreplaceable stained glass windows you absolute vandal!

- The module shows a square window containing 25 stained glass panes.
- Each pane has a rule with reference to the colour of either itself or one or more of its neighbours.
- If the rule is true, click the pane to smash it.
- Click all necessary panes to disarm the module.
- Smashing a pane where the rule is false will cause a strike.
- Adjacent refers to orthogonal panes.
- Above and below refers to immediately diagonal panes (or the entire row where specified).

■	Ice
■	Malachite
■	Amber
■	Amethyst
■	Rose
■	Aureolin

Malachite or amber

The pane to the right is ice

The row below contains aureolin

Ice or amethyst

The row above contains amethyst

The pane above is malachite or amber

Ice or rose

The row above contains amber

Amethyst or aureolin

Either of the panes below is amethyst

Rose or aureolin

The row below contains malachite

Any adjacent pane is the same as this one

All adjacent panes are different from this one

The above or below panes are malachite or amethyst

The row below contains rose

Ice or aureolin

Two adjacent panes are the same

Malachite or amber

Any adjacent pane is ice

Any adjacent pane is aureolin

Amethyst or rose

Either of the panes above is amber

The pane to the left is rose

Ice or malachite